CelebrAsian Procurement Conference 2016
Heads to Atlanta, Georgia on June 1 ~ 3

UPS CEO David Abney chairs country’s largest B2B conference convened by Pan Asian Americans to connect with large, medium and small enterprises

CelebrAsian Procurement Conference — the country’s oldest and largest annual gathering of innovative Pan Asian American suppliers representing a wide array of fast-growing industries — will be held on June 1 ~ 3, 2016 at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta in the heart of Atlanta, Georgia.

CelebrAsian is the flagship event of the US Pan Asian American Chamber of Commerce Education Foundation (USPAACC) and the year’s most anticipated business-to-business conference convened by Pan Asian Americans to connect with large, medium and small enterprises.

UPS CEO David P. Abney is this year’s Conference Chair. The UPS CTO will also be playing a leadership role at the Conference.

UPS is the world’s largest package delivery company and a provider of supply chain management solutions, with global headquarters in the greater Atlanta area.

Host Co-Chairs are The Coca-Cola Company, Nissan, SunTrust, and UPS. Asian American Business Co-Chairs are Ampcus and SoftPath Systems. Legacy Co-Chairs are PepsiCo and Wells Fargo.

The theme is “Today’s Vision, Tomorrow’s Reality: Cheers to the Next 30 Years!”

“We are honored to have Mr. Abney as our Conference Chair this year,” said Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO. “UPS is a strong global brand that will add much value and opportunities for robust growth in the mainstream.”

New programs will include: Grow Your Business with Google; CTO/CIO Forum; Doing Business with Financial Services Companies; and Doing Business in the Healthcare Industry.

The ever-popular Chief Procurement Officers Forum — with 15 CPOs from global brands already confirmed — will be held on the first day of the Conference.

Mainstay programs include: Ideas Marketplace: What’s Your Pitch?, now in its sophomore year; the black-tie Excellence Awards Reception & Dinner; Asian American Chambers Summit; USPAACC/Wells Fargo Lun-

Dear Friends,

The wind continues to be at our back as we soar through the first quarter of 2016!

We were grateful to have had a truly remarkable banner year highlighted by the celebration of an important milestone — our 30th Pearl Anniversary — and thanks to all of your support, the North Star of our program, CelebrAsian Procurement Conference, held last June in Bethesda, Maryland was a resounding success!

This year, we will hold our annual national conference in Atlanta, Georgia — home to a dynamic and fast-growing Asian American population.

We are honored to have David Abney, Chairman and CEO of UPS, as our Conference Chair. Their CTO will also play a leadership role at the Conference.

Our theme is “Today’s Vision, Tomorrow’s Reality: Cheers to the Next 30 Years!”

Indeed, our dreams will be a reality if we could effectively compete in the global market. To do this, we must stay ahead of the curve by introducing new and exciting programs that reflect the ever-changing demands of the marketplace. Grow Your Business with Google, CTO/CIO Forum, Doing Business with the Financial Services Companies, and Doing Business in the Healthcare Industry — are such programs.

We are also bringing back “Ideas Marketplace: What’s Your Pitch?” — our instant-hit program introduced last year that celebrates a new generation of entrepreneurs, who are not only agents of change but also the pillars of the future.

We will continue to foster more key partnerships to strengthen the foundation for an even stronger USPAACC. Our Chamber Training Institute (CTI) program held six 2-day workshops in six cities nationwide, linking our arms with US Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, U.S. Black Chambers and National Gays & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce, to train our national and local Chamber leaders how to lead, manage and operate a successful and effective Chamber.

Our momentum keeps growing — more corporations notice us, so do the United States Congress, the White House, and other national organizations with similar mission and different constituents, and the list goes on.

At USPAACC, our success depends on the successes of our Pan Asian American businesses and the nod of corporations, governments and large nonprofits, who find their association with us valuable.

We began this year on a high note, and we now look to the horizon with fresh eyes, vigor and renewed optimism as we welcome every opportunity to grow and a chance to invest and continue to build a very special organization. And with you by our side, I know we will continue to soar because the sky’s the limit.

I hope to see you all at our CelebrAsian Procurement Conference on June 1-3 in Atlanta — if not sooner at one of our regional networking events!

In friendship,

Susan Au Allen
National President & CEO
USPAACC Inducted into WBE Hall of Fame

The US Pan Asian American Chamber of Commerce Education Foundation (USPAACC) was inducted into the Women Business Enterprise Hall of Fame on December 7, 2015 at the Four Seasons Resort & Club in Irving, Texas for its 30-year proven track record of service to the Pan Asian American and the small/minority business communities.

In particular, USPAACC was recognized for opening doors, fostering connections and relationships between women in business and Fortune corporations and governments.

USPAACC National President & CEO Susan Au Allen, in accepting the Award on behalf of USPAACC, said: “We salute our women entrepreneurs of all backgrounds for they create jobs and contribute to the vitality of the country. We celebrate their vision, optimism and determination. Like the parable of the chopsticks, when we come together to support each other and do not stand alone as a single chopstick, we will be very hard to break. When we take care of each other, we can be strong as a group, as a country; because this is America – a country that celebrates the strength of diversity, the power of community, and the promise of prosperity based on merit.”

This distinction comes on the heels of having been honored as the “Advocate of the Year” by the U.S. Department of Commerce Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) and by the Boy Scouts of America National Capital Area Council in 2014.

Nominations and applications to USPAACC’s “Fast 100 Asian American Business” Awards for 2016 are now being accepted. This is a program that showcases the country’s 100 fast-growing Pan Asian American-owned companies, based on percentage revenue growth in the past 2 fiscal years of operation (2013 & 2014).

Winners will be publicly presented at USPAACC’s flagship national event, CelebrAsian Procurement Conference, at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta in Atlanta, Georgia on June 1 ~ 3, 2016.

Criteria for selection include: Ownership by one or more Asian Americans (at least 51% owned or managed), with at least $1 million in annual revenue in the past 2 fiscal years of operation (2013 & 2014), among others.

Due date for submission of nominations or applications is April 8, 2016.

“Our Fast 100 Asian American Businesses epitomize the best in our community – as innovators, job creators, visionaries, and industry leaders,” said Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO.

“We take pride in shining the spotlight on their achievements and impressive business growth despite the volatile economic landscape!” Allen added.

Last year’s Fast 100 winners posted a collective annual revenue of $2.7 Billion, with companies recording up to 350% growth rate. They represented a wide array of industries, including Aerospace, Construction, Engineering, Food & Beverage, IT, Manufacturing, Solar Energy, Wholesales, etc.

The winners were of Asian Indian, Bangladesh, Chinese, Filipino, Japanese, Korean, Pakistani, Thai, Taiwanese and Vietnamese heritage.

USPAACC Holds Successful Business Roundtable Matchmaking & Networking Reception at Capital One HQ in Virginia

USPAACC hosted a filled-to-capacity Business Roundtable Matchmaking & Networking Reception on March 8 at Capital One HQ in McLean, Virginia.

Asian American and minority business owners, Fortune corporation supplier diversity and procurement leaders and small business program managers from federal, state and local government came to the event.

Jerry Miller, Director, Enterprise Supplier Management opened the event with welcome remarks on behalf of Capital One Financial Corporation, a 5-year USPAACC member and supporter.

During the Business Roundtable Matchmaking portion, Asian American and other minority and small businesses met face-to-face with representatives from Fortune corporations and Government Agencies in three rounds of private discussions.

USPAACC Holds Business Connections & Networking Lunch at Freddie Mac HQ in Virginia

USPAACC hosted its first event of 2016, Business Connections & Networking Lunch, on January 21 at the Freddie Mac offices in McLean, Virginia.

Despite the inclement weather, over 85% of the registrants attended, proving the importance of such programs and the value all participants place in USPAACC’s work.

The event brought together Asian American and minority business owners, Fortune corporation supplier diversity and procurement leaders as well as small business program managers from federal, state and local governments.

As a 10-year supporter and USPAACC member, Freddie Mac opened the event with welcome remarks from Jay Inouye, Director, Vendor & Diversity Management, Strategic Sourcing & Procurement.

Highlights of the event were the procurement presentations by Donna Howell, VP, Strategic Sourcing & Procurement at Freddie Mac and Reggie McCauley, Director, Supply Chain at Pepco Holdings.

Among the takeaways from their presentations are: Procurement Department’s role is to optimize quality, save money and mitigate contractual risk; not only price, but quality, technical expertise and trustworthiness are also key. The contract has to work for both sides – if it is one side gets all, the relationship will not last long.

Vendor management is crucial. Suppliers need to utilize their point of contact at the vendor management team and make sure they discuss all issues as they arise, and never wait until it is too late. The hardest work often does not start until the contract is signed.

A networking luncheon followed, where USPAACC members spent quality time with the speakers and Freddie Mac’s procurement team and exhibitors.
Job creation and minority business growth were among the salient topics that USPAACC National President & CEO Susan Au Allen discussed with Congressman Steve Chabot (R-OH 1st District), Chairman of the U.S. House Small Business Committee, when she met at the Congressman’s U.S. Capitol Hill office in Washington, DC last July.

They also discussed the Trade Promotion Authority (TPA) and how it would affect small and minority businesses, as well as access to capital for small businesses, access to government contracting, and other economic and growth-related topics.

Allen shared with Chairman Chabot USPAACC’s 2015 Fast 100 Asian American Businesses, who together collected $2.7 billion in annual revenue.

She also visited Brad Bailey, Policy Advisor to former Speaker of the House, John Boehner to discuss small and minority business issues.

USPAACC recommended member Tracy Balazs, President and CEO of Annapolis-based staffing firm Federal Staffing Resources LLC, to testify at the Empowering Small Business Advocates on Capitol Hill in December last year.

Balazs was among the diverse panel of federal contractors who stressed to the U.S. House Small Business Committee the need to modernize and reform the federal rules for small business advocates like the Offices of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBUs) — to empower them so they can better advise and assist small companies that do business with the federal government.

The hearing came shortly after President Obama signed the FY2016 National Defense Authorization Act into law, which contains significant reforms to the acquisition process to help small contractors work with the Department of Defense.

“We know that we are losing small contractors, and it will be difficult if not impossible to replace these sectors of our technological and industrial base,” said Subcommittee Chairman Richard Hanna (R-NY). “Supporting the advocates who support small businesses is a crucial element of small business success.”

“The government contracting process is complex and confusing,” said Balazs. “Most small businesses do not have the time or the money it takes to fully understand how to succeed as a government contractor.”

In February this year, USPAACC participated in the Minority-Owned Small Business Roundtable organized by the U.S. House Small Business Committee to discuss issues facing small business owners on the invitation of Congresswoman Nydia M. Velázquez (D-NY).

USPAACC Board Member and President of Qnexis, Kurt Nguyen, made recommendations to the six Members attending from the U.S. House Committee on Small Business, on how they could support and strengthen small and minority-owned businesses in accessing capital and securing Federal contracts which amounts to over $150 billion a year.

USPAACC in Action

Linking Arms: USPAACC Reaches Out to National Organizations in Various Industries to Bolster Relationships and Create More Business Opportunities for Members

USPAACC continues to link arms with minority business organizations coast to coast to ensure members access to more opportunities. With a strong belief that every partnership thrives when it is supported by movers and shakers of the broader community—these vital links could help open new doors to such opportunities.

Through the years, USPAACC has formed symbiotic relationships with other national and local organizations that have resulted in two-way sharing of a variety of resources—e.g., training, ideas, and strategy—focused primarily on ways in which the partner organizations can help each other grow and help their respective constituency.

Among USPAACC’s latest ventures in the past year was the further strengthening of its partnership with the country’s 4 leading national minority organizations: National Minority Supplier Diversity Council (NMSDC); U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (USHCC); U.S. Black Chambers (USBC); and National Gay and Lesbian Chamber of Commerce (NGLCC).

USPAACC is also collaborating with the Asian American Hotel Owners Association (AAHOA) and the Asian Real Estate Association of America (AREAA).

In February 2016 at the USPAACC National Headquarters in Washington, DC, USPAACC National President & CEO Susan Au Allen received the leadership of AAHOA, Vinaykumar (Vinay) Patel, Washington District Regional Director, Jordan Heliczer, Director, Government Affairs, and Nick Patel, Chief Financial Officer of CompuGain to discuss ways to help their respective members.

In March 2016, Allen met with Hope Atuel, Executive Director of AREAA to explore new opportunities for their respective members.

International Relations: USPAACC and Hong Kong Trade Development Council Heighten Collaboration in 2016 and Beyond

USPAACC continues to strengthen its connection with key trade and business organizations in Asia to help U.S.-based companies establish strategic business relationships, to bring more American products and services to the dynamic region and investments into the United States, and explore joint venture opportunities in Asia.

Last year, USPAACC leadership met and had a substantive discussion with high-level representatives of the Hong Kong Trade Development Council (HKTDC) in New York. HKTDC was established in 1966 to help Hong Kong’s small and medium-sized enterprises connect with business clients and partners around the world.

This fall, USPAACC will lead another Trade Mission to Shanghai, Shenzhen, and Hong Kong on September 17-27. Target industries are furniture, healthcare, and technology.

USPAACC Completes 15 Live Webinars Series to Help Facilitate Sustained Growth of Small and Minority Businesses with Wells Fargo Support

USPAACC’s Business Leadership Series (BLS) program, exclusively sponsored by Wells Fargo, is a unique educational opportunity for business people to engage in meaningful discussions about business experiences in order to grow leadership skills and learn practical management tools for future success.

Over the course of fifteen (15) live webinar sessions held year-long beginning early 2015, participants explored issues the small and minority business community faced in starting, managing and growing an entrepreneurial venture. The webinars were made available online once they have been presented live.

The impact of the BLS has been positive across the board — Pan Asian American and other small and minority-owned businesses, corporate members and sponsors, and government partners all gave the BLS webinar thumbs up for the high quality content.

BLS has brought together diverse individuals — small, startup business owners, successful entrepreneurs, government business program managers, Fortune corporate marketing and supply chain managers, professors — linked together by the program’s case-study and compelling storytelling approach.

BLS also reached a new segment of small business, those below $1M in annual revenue, by educating them about the resources, lessons learned, do’s and don’ts, and opportunities to build capacity.

Each webinar session, designed for different levels of entrepreneurs – beginners or “starters,” emerging leaders or “builders,” and reflective leaders or “thinkers” – featured guest speakers and a topical focus.

Through USPAACC’s partnership with The George Washington University (GWU), the webinars were moderated by award-winning author and teacher, Dr. Ayman El Tarabishy, Executive Director of International Council of Small Business (ICSB) and Associate Professor in Management at the GWU School of Business.

USPAACC National President & CEO Susan Au Allen opened the series with a presentation on the organization “USPAACC: Past, Present & Future.”

The most popular webinar was “Doing Business with Fortune Corporations 101.” Speakers were Oliver Turman, Director, AT&T Supplier Diversity and Joan Stormont, Director, Strategic Sourcing, Nationwide.

The webinar touched on how to do business with Fortune corporations, the procurement structure and processes, the do’s and don’ts, what they look for in a supplier, how to connect potential suppliers to their primes, and upcoming opportunities, etc.

Among the 26 featured speakers from different industries were award-winning entrepreneurs and industry practitioners, high-level procurement executives, and officers from the private sector and federal government agencies. Participants from all over the country tuned in to the live webinars through their phones or computers.

This year, in March, the webinar series kicked off with “Success Stories.” Susan Au Allen, National President & CEO, USPAACC, and Doug Case, SVP and Small Business Segment Manager, Wells Fargo, welcomed the attendees.

Speakers were Elizabeth Tran, President, TechniSource Service Group, Inc. and Yung Lee, President, WinWin Products, Inc.

To learn more about upcoming webinars or to listen to the webinar recordings and see the presentations, visit www.uspaacc.com/programs/business-leadership-series or visit USPAACC’s blog www.uspaacc.com/news/blog for the webinar summaries.
